

Expansion of Covered Employees Subject to 162(m) Compensation Deduction Limit

AUTHOR

Deb Lifshey
Managing Director

Our old friend, Section 162(m) is getting another makeover, this time from the latest stimulus package in the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 (the ARPA). Section 162(m) of the tax code generally prohibits a public company from deducting more than $1 million in compensation paid to a current or former “covered employee” in a taxable year. Under current law, the “covered employees” are the chief executive officer, chief financial officer, and the three other highest compensated officers for the taxable year. An employee who meets this criteria in any taxable year is permanently treated as a covered employee of the company for all subsequent years, regardless of whether the employee continues to meet the criteria.

Under tax current rules, while non-executive officers (e.g., entertainment personalities and traders) may earn many times more than executive officers, they are not subject to the 162(m) deduction limit. Starting in 2026, that will no longer be the case. The ARPA provides that effective for any taxable year beginning after December 31, 2026, the covered employees for a taxable year will also include the company’s five highest compensated employees in that year (in addition to the chief executive officer, chief financial officer, and three other highest compensated officers). However, unlike other covered employees, these additional five employees will not become permanently treated as covered employees and will be re-determined each year. This amendment is expected to boost revenue by $7.8 billion over its first five years. As such, the prospect of repealing this provision prior to its effective date seems dubious at best at this juncture given the size of the stimulus package.

Keep in mind, however, the disclosure rules (which require compensation information for “named executive officers” or “NEOs” who are still defined as the CEO, CFO, and three next highest paid executive officers) are different from the new tax rules (which refer to “covered employees” who now include the NEOs plus five new players potentially outside the c-suite).

When the SEC revamped its proxy disclosure rules in 2006, it attempted to implement the so-called “Katie Couric rule,” which would have required compensation proxy disclosure not only for NEOs, but also the top three other employees, regardless of whether they were executive officers. That proposal was quickly shot down in the final rules. While the tax deduction limit will now apply to at least ten current employees (as well as former covered executive officers) in any given year, the reporting requirements in the proxy statement will continue to apply only to NEOs unless the SEC revisits the issue. Thus, at least for disclosure purposes, the “Katie Couric rule” has not been resurrected.

About the Author

Deborah Lifshay is a managing director in the New York office, where she specializes in advising clients on compensation matters from a legal perspective including securities disclosure, taxation and corporate governance issues, negotiation contracts, and reasonableness opinion letters. She is a graduate of the Industrial and Labor Relations School at Cornell University and the University of Florida College of Law, and served as a federal clerk for the Honorable Judge Susan H. Black on the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals.

About Pearl Meyer

Pearl Meyer is the leading advisor to boards and senior management on the alignment of executive compensation with business and leadership strategy, making pay programs a powerful catalyst for value creation and competitive advantage. Pearl Meyer’s global clients stand at the forefront of their industries and range from emerging high-growth, not-for-profit, and private companies to the Fortune 500 and FTSE 350. The firm has offices in Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Charlotte, Chicago, Houston, London, Los Angeles, New York, Raleigh, and San Jose.

Pearl Meyer

---

ATLANTA

(770) 261-4080
atlanta@pearlmeyer.com

BALTIMORE

(410) 494-4100
baltimore@pearlmeyer.com

BOSTON

(508) 460-9600
boston@pearlmeyer.com

CHARLOTTE

(704) 844-6626
charlotte@pearlmeyer.com

CHICAGO

(312) 242-3050
chicago@pearlmeyer.com

HOUSTON

(713) 568-2200
houston@pearlmeyer.com

LONDON

+44 (0)20 3384 6711
london@pearlmeyer.com

LOS ANGELES

(213) 438-6500
losangeles@pearlmeyer.com

NEW YORK

(212) 644-2300
newyork@pearlmeyer.com

RALEIGH

(919) 644-6962
raleigh@pearlmeyer.com

SAN JOSE

(669) 800-5074
sanjose@pearlmeyer.com

For more information on Pearl Meyer, visit us at www.pearlmeyer.com or contact us at (212) 644-2300.